$2.25 Billion More In War Funds Asked By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Congress for an extra $2.25 billion primarily for the Indochina war—nearly a one-third increase in war costs in the wake of renewed U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

The President made the request Friday without indicating whether it is all or only part of the extra war costs Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has said could go up to $5 billion if the United States continues bombing, mining and other war operations at the present pace through the end of the year.

The President indicated at his news conference Thursday night he intends to continue U.S. war operations at that pace until Hanoi is willing to accept a cease-fire and release American prisoners.

"The only way we are going to get our POWs back," he said, "is to be doing something to them, and that means hitting military targets in North Vietnam, retaining a residual force in South Vietnam and continue the mining of the harbors of Vietnam."

The request is for money in addition to some $7 billion already in the President's regular defense request for the 1973 fiscal year starting today.

The President also asked an extra $700 million military aid for Vietnam war allies for a total of $3.2 billion for the fiscal year.

Laird told the House Appropriations Committee June 5 the administration would have to ask another $3 billion for the war if American forces had to "maintain our present response" to Hanoi's invasion of South Vietnam through Sept. 30 and $5 billion if the pace continued through Dec. 31.

Pentagon Comptroller Robert C. Moot indicated at the time that the intensified war operations were costing a little over $1.5 billion in additional funds every three-month quarter.

Doubled Bonds, No Warnings Okayed For 4th

Pickaway County law enforcement officers have the authority to double bond money charged drivers arrested for traffic violations during the long July 4 holiday which started 6 p.m. Friday, according to a letter posted Friday by Circleville Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb.

The letter said in part, "all bonds posted for traffic violations may be doubled. Each arresting officer shall use his own discretion in each individual case."

Copies were mailed to the Ohio State Highway Patrol post, the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department, and Circleville police.

Provisions of the letter took effect 6 p.m. Friday and will continue until 12:01 a.m. Wednesday. It is an obvious attempt to control the large concentration of traffic expected to pass through the county during the holiday.

In addition to bond doubling, spokesmen for the Highway Patrol and Sheriff's Department indicate no warnings will be issued drivers, only citations. "If a driver is guilty of a violation, he will be ticketed," the spokesmen claim. "We won't have time to coddle offenders."

Three types of drivers are expected to cause the most holiday accidents, drunk ones, reckless ones and sleepy ones, according to a sheriff's deputy.

"The intoxicated drivers will be put away in the jail," he said. "That's about all we can do with them. Reckless or show-off drivers will be ticketed and severely reprimanded, and sleepy drivers will be ordered to the nearest coffee shop."

Pickaway County React and Rescue units have established a stopping place for tired motorists. Coffee and donuts will be offered by the units at the roadside park on Route 23.

Eastern U.S. Still Under Rain System

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered showers and thunderstorms persisted over the eastern two-thirds of the nation today as the long Fourth of July weekend got into full swing.

Thunderstorms also were scattered from the Rockies to the Mississippi and from Texas to South Carolina and Florida.

Although rainfall amount generally were low, flash-flood warnings continued for southern New England and the Hudson Valley and Catskill Mountain areas of New York.

Flood warnings for rain-ravaged western New York were ended Friday when the Chemung River dropped well below the danger line for the first time since last week's disastrous floods.

The rest of the nation remained fair and dry, with very hot weather reported in the far Southwest.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 47 at Hoquiam and Quillayute, Wash., to 103 at Needles, Calif.

Some other reports: Anchorage 51 cloudy, Atlanta 66 clear, Boston 60 cloudy, Buffalo 61 fog, Chicago 72 clear, Cincinnati 66 clear, Cleveland 64 clear, Dallas 83 partly cloudy, Denver 66 partly cloudy, Detroit 61 clear, Honolulu 75 clear, Indianapolis 69 clear, Kansas City 80 cloudy, Los Angeles 65 cloudy, Louisville 71 clear, Miami 75 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul 68 rain, Nashville 69 partly cloudy, New York 64 clear, Philadelphia 64 clear, Phoenix 87 clear, Pittsburgh 63 cloudy, St. Louis 75 clear, San Francisco 60 clear, Seattle 62 clear, Washington 66 cloudy.

Daley Delegation Ousted By Committee

Demo Party Split Worsens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, boss of the biggest Democratic organization in the country, has been shorn of his convention seat in a move that left the party teetering on the edge of discord.

The convention's Credentials Committee, firmly controlled by supporters of Sen. George McGovern, voted 71 to 61 Friday night to deny seats to Daley and 58 other uncommitted Illinois delegates.

The committee voted instead to seat a rival slate of 41 delegates pledged to McGovern and another 18 leaning toward him.

The vote was the second explosive challenge decided by the committee, triggering extreme emotional responses and setting the stage for a discordant convention floor fight. But, after the Daley vote, a leader of the insurgents called for a healing compromise.

McGovern also picked up eight convention votes in another successful challenge involving downstate Illinois delegates and so gained back at least 49 of the delegates he lost Thursday when the Credentials Committee outlawed California's winner-take-all primary, stripping him of more than half its 271 delegates.

All of the committee's actions are subject to final approval by the national convention, which opens in Miami Beach July 10, and both the California and Illinois challenges are expected to be refought there. The Daley delegation is also planning a court fight to overturn the committee ruling.

In Chicago, Daley did not disclose his immediate plans, but the Rev. Jesse Jackson, a leader of the challenge, said he hoped a compromise could be worked out before the convention.

"Rather than having a fight in Miami, there should be a solution in Chicago," Jackson said.

"It is clear we have the power to cut him off, and he has the power to cut us off," said

Jackson. "The question is how can we survive together."

Daley called the vote "regrettable and a great disservice to the Democratic party."

Although there had been talk in the committee of a compromise on the Illinois challenge, the mood changed abruptly to bitterness following the California vote.

The challenge to the Daley delegation was based on the report of a hearing examiner appointed by the Credentials (Continued on Page 10)

Findlay Man Killed In 23 Crash

COUNTY'S EIGHTH — Howard Fisher, a 59-year-old Findlay resident, was fatally injured shortly after 6 this morning as a result of a Pickaway County's traffic fatality toll was increased by one on the first morning of the 4th of July weekend holiday with the death of a 59-year-old Findlay resident.

Death claimed Howard M. Fisher shortly after 6 a.m. today when he was thrown from single vehicle accident in which his life apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Mrs. Fisher was operating the vehicle when she lost control his camper vehicle. He apparently died instantly from severe injury to his head.

Driver of the death vehicle was his wife, Eleanor, age 55. She received four broken ribs and was treated at Berger Hospital.

Highway Patrol Sgt. Neil Staten noted that the couple had little sleep before starting their journey to Peterstown, W. Va. Mrs. Fisher had taken over the driving chore when the couple was about 40 miles north of Columbus and planned to reach Chillicothe before stopping for breakfast. They were less than half a mile from Route 361 when the accident happened.

"THE next thing I remember I went off the roadway and did not know what to do," Mrs. Fisher told Sgt. Staten. She reported she blacked out as the car travelled some 345 feet in the median strip between the north and southbound lanes. On regaining the pavement, the foreign-made bus-like vehicle rolled across the southbound stretch of highway and into the ditch, finally coming to rest on its left side, facing north.

Mrs. Fisher informed the patrol officer that she and her husband had been up all evening packing the vehicle before leaving Findlay at 3:30 Saturday morning, with her husband at the wheel. Howard Fisher had moved into the back to sleep when his wife began driving. It is believed he was thrown through the open top of the vehicle when it began and rolled it over, throwing her husband out. The couple had just begun a vacation trip to West Virginia, but had started out their trip after staying up all night to pack their auto. Mrs. Fisher was treated at Berger Hospital for broken ribs and shock.

rolling. His body was found a few feet to the rear of the vehicle when it came to rest.

Court Voids Chapel Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals has ruled that compulsory chapel attendance at the three service academies is unconstitutional, thus ending a long-standing military tradition.

The 2-1 decision Friday, reversing a lower-court ruling, held that the compulsory attendance violated the First Amendment prohibition against establishment of religion.

The Defense Department may appeal the decision to the Supreme Court. But unless a stay is granted, the decision ends the chapel requirement at the Military Academy at West Point, the Naval Academy at Annapolis and the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

Military officials defended the required chapel attendance, saying that exposure to religion contributes to the moral and character development needed in good military officers.

The service regulations at issue require cadets and midshipmen to attend Protestant, Catholic or Jewish chapel services every Sunday, according to the court's opinion. The Navy and Air Force let their servicemen attend services either at the academies or at local churches.

Sgt. Staten noted that he had received a call to the fatality after he had just completed investigation of a similar accident further north on Route 23, near the RCA plant.

In that crash, a Navy man and his wife who were returning on a five-day leave to Chillicothe and their families escaped injury when their car struck the entrance sign on the approach to the plant.

Twenty-two year old David Mullin had been driving eleven hours from the naval base where he was stationed near Virginia Beach, Va. when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and his car went into the median. It struck the sign, causing front end damage, but neither Mullin or his wife Lois were injured.

The accident occurred at 4:45 a.m.

West Liberty Girl Dairy Princess

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Pert, 19-year-old Margaret Warner of West Liberty, Logan County, has been chosen the new Miss Miami Valley Dairy Princess for 1972.

The 1971 graduate of West Liberty-Salem High School is now eligible to participate in the Ohio Dairy Princess Pageant in Columbus early in June of 1973.

Miss Warner was selected over contestants from eight other counties represented at the Dayton pageant Friday.

The contest is sponsored annually by the Miami Valley Milk Producers Association.

Taft On Losing Side On Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, voted with the losing side Friday as the Senate rejected 69-20 a move to substitute a 10 per cent for a 20 per cent increase in benefits in a Social Security Bill.

Ohio's other senator, William Saxbe, also a Republican, was not recorded as voting.

Violence Ends Uneasy Truce In Ireland

Protestants Open Drive On Catholic Bogside District

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland took on an air of siege today as masked and uniformed Protestants threw up hundreds of barricades in at least 10 cities in defiance of British troops.

More than 20,000 hooded men joined by some masked women sealed off Protestant areas and brought normal busy Saturday life to a virtual standstill throughout the province.

British troops and Roman Catholics made no attempt to break down or crash through the buses, trucks, cars and rubble that sealed off Protestant areas.

Some violence shattered the few days of peace enjoyed by the province since the Catholic-based Irish Republican Army declared a truce last Monday.

One man was killed and two wounded early today in shooting incidents in Belfast. A youth was wounded at Lurgan, 20 miles away. There were other incidents elsewhere but no major outbreak of violence.

The body of a man who had been hooded, gagged and shot was also found in midmorning on the fringe of Belfast's Woodvale area, itself surrounded by barricades. It was Northern Ireland's 392nd casualty in three years of communal strife.

Skyjacking Problems Are Bared

DETROIT (AP) — The FBI said last week's airliner hijacking was well planned but the hijacker lost his pants, submarine gun and the $502,500 ransom he got from American Airlines.

In addition, Neil Welch, head of the FBI office in Detroit, said Friday, the hijacker was identified by two FBI agents who boarded the plane and he left the ransom note—fingerprints and all—on the plane.

The hijacker wound up in Peru, Ind., instead of Monroe, Mich., where the FBI said he had intended to land.

The FBI said it was led to Martin McNally, 28, of Wyandotte, Mich., by the fingerprints and by an informant's tip.

McNally, an unemployed high school dropout, was arrested Wednesday night on a charge of air piracy. John Petlikowsky, 31, of Ecorse, Mich., went to the FBI Friday and told the agents he had unwittingly driven McNally back to Detroit.

Agents said Petlikowsky later gave a complete account of the hijacking. He was arrested and charged with aiding and abetting an air piracy. He and McNally are being held in lieu of $100,000 bond each.

The FBI said McNally and Petlikowsky developed the hijacking and made "a number" of trips to St. Louis to scout the area. When the skyjacker jumped, the FBI said, the wind blast was greater than he had anticipated. That's when he lost the submachine gun, the money and his pants.

Gilligan Vacations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan left Friday for a four-day July 4 holiday weekend at his lakeside home near Traverse City, Mich.

Federal Inspectors Cruise Nation In Fireworks Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal inspectors posing as tourists are cruising heavily-traveled highways in the Midwest and Southeast this Fourth of July weekend in search of bootleg fireworks.

A similar crackdown last year resulted in more than 80 seizures of illegal explosives and the shutdown of one plant, and netted Food and Drug Administration agents thousands of dollars worth of fireworks.

"We know there are still some clandestine plants operating," said Dale C. Miller, chief of compliance in the FDA's Bureau of Product Safety.

Former Airmen Assist Natives On New Guinea

RABAU, New Guinea (AP) — A former American airman shot down by Japanese in Australian New Guinea in 1943 and an Australian officer are gathering money to help natives who hid them from the Japanese start a plantation.

Fred H. Hargeseimer of White Bear Lake, Minn., and Air Vice Marshal William E. Townsend are members of the Wartime Escapers' Society. Since 1964 they have been raising money for the Nakainai tribal people on the north coast of New Guinea near the trust territory island of New Britain, where both were shot down and later taken out by submarine.

So far Hargeseimer and Townsend have helped finance and supervise the building of a 100-seat school at the village of Ewasse in the Nakainai area. Now they are raising money so that the Nakainai people can start a plantation to produce the $12,000 needed each year to staff and run the school and the associated medical aid post.

Hargeseimer has visited Ewasse three times since 1964 and is expected again soon.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's northern counter-offensive slowed down today, but forward elements were within three miles of enemy-held Quang Tri City, field reports said.

Meanwhile, scattered enemy attacks to the rear and in the south showed that the North Vietnamese offensive — now in its fourth month — is far from finished.

Action reported today in the far north ranged from six to 12 miles from Quang Tri City and included one enemy artillery attack against a position on the coastal "Street Without Joy" east of Quang Tri and a battle just north of the old northern front of the western flank of the My Chanh River line.

Field sources said South Vietnamese troops were meeting stiffer resistance as they neared Quang Tri and that the advance also was slowed by the lack of bridges over two rivers between the old front and the captive provincial capital.

Associated Press Correspondent Holger Jensen reported from the battlefield that heavy rains flooded river fords today, holding up supply vehicles, including ammunition trucks.

Some 30 miles below the front, enemy units shelled positions on Hue's southwest defense line and the Saigon command reported other shelling north of the national capital. Besieged An Loc and its southern approaches, about 60 miles north of Saigon were hit by at least 350 rounds in three shelling attacks and one ground attack.

Twenty-five miles to the northeast, enemy forces attacked with shellfire and ground advances Friday night in three spots in and around Phuoc Binh.

Fresh action also appeared to be shaping up in the Parrot's Beak area of eastern Cambodia, 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

The U.S. Command reported that two American spotter planes and a helicopter had crashed in Svay Rieng province this week from "unknown causes" and one pilot was missing.

South Vietnamese spokesmen also reported that Highway 11 (Continued on Page 10)

Plant Analysis Explains Need For Yield Goals

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

"Any good crop production program should start with soil test and resulting fertilizer recommendations for a specific yield goal," says Lawrence N. Shepherd, Extension Agronomist at The Ohio State University.

"After you have applied the recommended fertilizer, you should determine if the crop has available to it adequate levels of all nutrients required for growth," the agronomist adds. "To check these levels, the Cooperative Extension Service has a plant analysis program for Ohio farmers."

Since specific sampling procedures must be followed for each crop, Shepherd advises farmers to get mailing kits from the County Extension Office prior to taking plant samples. These kits include mailing envelopes, sampling instructions, and an information sheet.

"For corn, the plant sample should be obtained when the tassels emerge and as long as the silks are still green," Shepherd explains. "If the corn was planted on time, sampling should take place during the first half of July."

For useful results, the agronomist suggests not sampling plants with such problems as dead plant tissue, insect damage, stress from drought or excess water. Also leave out poor plants including those with heavy weed competition. The corn plant sample should contain about 15 leaves, obtained at the ear or silk.

At the Plant Analysis Laboratory samples are tested for nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium, manganese, iron, boron, copper, zinc and molybdenum. The levels of these nutrients in the plant sample are reported to the farmer, along with the interpretation of "deficient," "low," "adequate," "high," or "excess." Where nutrients are low or deficient, corrective steps in the fertilizer program may be taken at any time during the next year.

Results from samples analyzed in Ohio between 1964 and 1970 indicated the following percentages of deficiency: 43 per cent nitrogen, 12 per cent phosphorus, 19 per cent potassium, 21 per cent magnesium, 7 per cent zinc and 11 per cent all other nutrients.

Shepherd points out that in general plants analyzed have been healthy, but he admits that we do have problems on a very high per cent of our corn.

"Plant analysis," he insists, "can pay off in high crop yields."

Combine Header Device Saves Bushel Of Soybeans

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Start planning now for expert soybean harvesting this fall, suggests Delbert M. Byg, Extension Agricultural Engineer at The Ohio State University. This planning should include consideration of the merits of combine header attachments which need to be ordered soon if you expect to make use of them this season.

Ohio research studies and field checks indicate that 85 to 90 per cent of the machine losses when combining soybeans occur in the gathering operation. Header losses usually average about 10 per cent of the crop yield but with combine header attachments, now available, these gathering losses may be reduced by more than one-half, the engineer adds. The header attachments are essentially a "cutterbar-extension" moving the cutting knife 8 to 18 inches ahead of the conventional cutterbar. This allows room for the tall soybean plants to change direction before entering the cross-auger which reduces the recutting loss. Also, the knife is "free floating" and cuts close to the ground leaving a stubble height of about 1 inch even though the combine may rock back and forth on uneven ground. This stubble height compares to a usual height of 3 to 5 inches or more with the conventional header.

Ohio harvesting studies show that stubble loss normally averages about 2.5 per cent of yield, shatter loss about 4.5 per cent of yield and recut and lodged stalks about 3 per cent of yield. With the floating cutterbar extensions, the stubble loss should be reduced the most because the knife is now cutting below the pod set. Shatter loss should also be reduced because the knife is no longer cutting through the pod sets. Also, the re-cutting of stalks are reduced because of the better feeding of material to the cross auger. Some shatter loss, however, will still remain as the pick up type reel is still needed to feed the soybeans into the cross auger. The reel produces some shattering of bean pods especially at bean moisture levels of 10 per cent or less. The net result, however, should be a saving of one to two bushels per acre.

Some disadvantages of these header attachment are that they must be installed as additional equipment, thus some additional expenditures of time and money. Also, for maximum benefit, the combine should have a hydraulic reel height control and a variable reel speed drive. More care may also be required in operating this header as heavy weed infestations can be troublesome. Soybean producers, however, should be aware of this equipment and its possible use.

Solon Introduces Death Penalty Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A death-penalty amendment to the Constitution has been proposed by a congressman who calls the Supreme Court verdict "harmful to the nation, faced as it is with rising crime."

The proposal was introduced Thursday by Rep. Louis C. Wyman, R-N.H., after the Supreme Court's 5-4 decision holding the death penalty unconstitutional as it is imposed under current laws in the United States.

Planning a picnic for the 4th of July? Why not include this month's plentiful foods to keep the cost down but nutrition high. Watch for lower costs on turkey, chicken, eggs, local vegetables and fruits (especially watermelon, peaches and plums).

Here's a favorite recipe of our 4-H foods members who like to munch on fresh fruits.

Cut a watermelon in half — which way you cut it depends on the size and shape of the melon. Be sure it will sit up like a bowl. Use a "ball" cutter or a teaspoon and scoop out the inside of the melon. Put "scoops" into a bag or bowl discarding seeds. Then fill your melon bowl with the balls plus other fresh (or canned) fruit, such as white seedless grapes, cantaloupe balls, orange sections, black berries or red raspberries and banana chunks. Add bananas at the last minute to keep them from turning black. Tuck a sprig of mint leaves on top for garnish.

Or here's another idea: If it's early in the summer cut a pineapple in half the long way, scoop it out and fill it with pineapple chunks and fresh, sugared strawberries. It will take several filled pineapples if your group is large.

For other good food ideas ask for the USDA bulletin "Money Saving Main Dishes." It's free at the Extension Office, 137 E. Franklin Street, or call 474-7534.

And So It Grows

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Enjoying your strawberries this year? It's not too early to plan a repeat performance for next year.

After harvest is complete on your June-bearing strawberry varieties, renovate the patch. The sooner after harvest this is done, the better your chances will be of getting a good crop next year.

The first important step is to mow off old foliage fairly close to the ground. Be careful not to injure the crown of the plants. Then fertilize. A general fertilizer application of about 2 pounds per 1,000 square feet of bed is adequate. Use a 10-20-10 or similar fertilizer analysis. Next, be sure the plants are supplied with soil moisture. During the summer control weeds, insects and diseases.

Following harvest, runners will develop and new strawberry plants will take root. As the days get shorter and temperatures cooler in late summer, fruit buds for next year's crop are initiated. It is important that you give your patch good care during the fruit budding season if you want a good crop next year.

Three outstanding All-American Rose Selections for 1973 are Electron, a bright rose-pink hybrid tea; Gypsy, a fiery orange-red hybrid tea; and Medallion, a soft apricot-yellow hybrid tea.

Electron comes from Ireland and the talents of the famous Irish breeder Sam McGredy IV; Gypsy is by O. L. Weeks; and Medallion is a hybrid of William A. Warriner, the latter two of American origin.

With July approaching, it's a good time to inspect your vegetable plants for insects and diseases. If these pests are making headway, take appropriate action now.

The County Extension Office has a bulletin available that lists insect and disease control methods.

Ford Issues Big Recall

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., in its biggest safety recall campaign to date, has called back 4.04 million vehicles to replace two shoulder belt gromets that cost only pennies apiece.

According to P.E. Benton Jr., Ford's customer service division general manager, a small percentage of the gromets, which fit on the stud that attaches the shoulder harness to the lap belt, have broken with repeated usage.

Breakage prevents the user from clicking the harness into a locked position, but the company said that no reports have been received of injuries because of this problem.

The campaign covers all the company's 1970 and 1971 model passenger cars except convertibles and 1970 Mavericks. To correct the problem, Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers will replace each plastic front seat shoulder belt gromet with neoprene "O" ring retainers.

Ford said that on the basis of a small number of earlier complaints the company converted to "O" rings on its 1972 model cars instead of gromets. The earlier complaints at the time were believed to be isolated cases, the company said.

Advertising Sign Rejection Brings Suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court agreed Thursday to hear an appeal by State Rep. Harry Lehman of a ruling that he may not buy political advertising space on car of a municipally-owned rapid transit system.

Lehman, a Republican, contends his constitutional rights of free speech and equal protection were violated when Metro Media, Inc., advertising agent for Shaker Heights Rapid Transit, refused his advertisements.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Electric Co. at Evansdale, Ohio, has been awarded a $3 million contract by the Federal Aviation Administration to carry on jet engine noise reduction research originally undertaken as part of the supersonic transport development program.

Congress voted funds last December, after the SST program had been canceled, to complete various SST-related projects offering technical benefits to aviation.

Motorists Fined, Sentenced For Driving While Intoxicated

Four motorists were each fined $150 and costs, sentenced to 30 days in the Pickaway County Jail and lost their driver's licenses for six months after being found guilty of driving while intoxicated by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb Friday.

Russell H. Pierce, 55, Route 1, Circleville; Harry Gorman, 46, Defiance; Randall Stewart, 22, Columbus; and Ronald R. Colvin, 28, Columbus, all received the fine and sentence.

In addition, 27 days of Colvin's sentence was suspended for prompt payment of fines.

In other court cases, Linda Nesser, 24, Route 1, Williamsport, was fined $15 and costs for driving an unsafe vehicle.

Michael Reese, 32, Route 2, Ashville, was fined $20 and costs for speeding 67 miles per hour in a 50 zone.

Floyd Stonerock, 24, 429 E. Mound St., was fined $15 and costs for following another vehicle too closely.

George Kerr, 75, 419 Watt St., was fined $15 and costs for failing to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

William McKinney, 39, 290 Sunset Drive, forfeited $24 bond for a stop sign violation.

Charles Whaley, 23, 440 Ruth Ave., forfeited $24 bond for speeding 71 miles per hour in a 60 zone.

Richard Noggle, 29, Ashville, forfeited $24 bond for speeding 71 miles per hour in a 60 zone.

Anthony Contino, 36, 574 Maplewood Lane, forfeited $24 bond for speeding 72 miles per hour in a 60 zone.

Highway Talks To Resume Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Negotiations between Ohio's highway and heavy construction contractors and striking laborers are expected to resume soon, federal mediators said Friday.

The mediators could not say exactly when new talks would be held. No discussions have been held since the strike began Tuesday over terms of a proposed new contract.

The strike has idled many projects across the state and could affect an estimated $800 million worth of construction work.

Caution Pays

When a group of consumer fraud experts gets together at a meeting sponsored by the Federal Trade Commission, some of the tales they tell are shocking.

A regional meeting of professional fraud investigators was held in New York City recently, and one federal attorney revealed the government had uncovered 107 diploma mills doing $50 million a year business.

These are mail-order "schools" which sell fake diplomas for a price — a very good price apparently. Their targets are the lazy, the careless and the unwary. They are particularly true. It probably is.

Historical Looting

Acknowledging the difficulties involved in differentiating between the private and public papers of a President of the United States, the practice of nearly every administration to pack up the White House files almost en toto is disturbing. Most of these papers eventually become the nucleus of a presidential library, and thus belatedly are available to the public, but that is not the issue.

The presidency is largely a public office, with certainly some private privileges. The bulk of the correspondence, memos and policy papers flowing from the presidential offices obviously are generated by the duties of the office. To treat them as the private papers of one man places them in a state of limbo from which they may or may not emerge.

One can imagine, for example, the value of correspondence initiated and received by Richard Nixon on the subject of the various public and secret attempts to negotiate an end to the Vietnam War. Many of these efforts were only revealed in their sketchiest terms, sometimes months after they had taken place.

Is this correspondence to become part of a Nixon library, to be revealed or not as the President may decide? The question is not rhetorical in view of the recent declassification of 30-year old wartime correspondence between Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill. In the brief time the secrecy label has been removed from these papers, their contents already have changed some historical perspectives concerning the relationship of these two World War II leaders.

The declassification of these papers was made by the Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, where they have been all these years. The trustees of the library were free to disclose the correspondence or not, as they alone saw fit. There is reason to believe they would not have done so, even at this late date, were it not for disclosures made by similarly declassified Churchill papers.

Because the presidency is a continuing office, and what one administration does influences the one which follows, certainly the official papers of a President ought not be spread throughout the nation in assorted monuments.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Although the morning has some disappointments, the afternoon and evening are excellent for finding out what is best for you to do in the future. Think out your most idealistic concepts and put them in effect at once. Show you are a humanitarian.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contacting those who mean a great deal in your life is wise. You can make better plans for the future. Meditation can be productive and bring fine results. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Attend the services of your choice in the morning. In the afternoon get together with good friends for a good time. A group meeting in the evening could result in something fine.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to show others you are not only a fine citizen but a most charitable person. Plan the new week's activities well. Avoid persons who have two-timing ideas. Be alert.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you talk with persons of wisdom, you are able to see everything more clearly now. Show that you are very understanding. Make plans for future travel. Be active.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you pay more attention to your intuitive faculties, you can gain the knowledge you need for handling your affairs well. Talk matters over with a close tie that will bring more happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Doing whatever will prove to mate that you are devoted is wise now. Any contracts, oral or written, can be changed now with good results following. Show you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are highly approved of by partners and derive fine benefits therefrom. Adequate rest now can rebuild your energies. The weeks ahead may be hectic. Take health treatments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find that you are highly creative and can take some risks now because you are so highly inspired. Find the right kind of entertainment that gives you spiritual energy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen carefully to what those at home have to say and try to meet their expectations. Think of the philosophical side of life and feel more deeply satisfied. Relax tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to put your activities on a more stable and secure basis now. Make sure that you attend the services that appeal to you. Visiting good friends in the afternoon is fine.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you want to gain more of life's abundance, you have to elevate your consciousness to greater things now. Call on practical business persons and get their ideas. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan what it is you want most in life and then go after your aims in a positive fashion. Be sure you're at your charming best if you go out socially. Show you have poise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those spiritual-minded youngsters who also has a practical nature, and therefore is bound to be popular and well liked by almost everyone. Your progeny will bring much happiness into the lives of others and be very helpful to them. Be sure to give encouragement early in life and a successful life is assured.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

MONDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

A wonderful day and evening to quietly enjoy wherever you happen to be this holiday period and especially to tune in on nature's beauties, or to do the things that bring you peace, tranquility and the understanding of ideals you wish to guide your actions in the future. Think in terms of a new approach to long-standing interests.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Long-distance matters and persons need to be handled well now, whether by mail or telephone. Consult with new contacts and have a better understanding of what is happening around you. Show more consideration for neighbors, too.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Paying more attention to intuitive promptings is wise today, since they can be most helpful and accurate. If you are diplomatic with those at home, this can be a most delightful evening. Courtesy is most important now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Sitting down with allies and good pals and talking over important matters makes this a most productive day, p.m. for you. Forget about going off on tangents. Get on the good side of others by paying honest compliments.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have fine ideas about how to handle special work you have to do efficiently as well as civic matters. Evening is excellent for impressing higher-ups. Show you have true ability, charm.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Prove to associates that you have great ability and confidence they need at this time. Experts will appreciate you more if you are open minded. Change attitude with kin in p.m. and get good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Whip up some enthusiasm for the work at hand and you get it done accurately and quickly. Cooperate more with associates. Take the right treatments to improve your health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Now that you can be with a partner, find out what is expected of you and do your utmost to cooperate and show your ingenuity. Don't give in to what an opponent desires of you. Be sure to stand up for your rights.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Discussing your plans with partners who are concerned as wise and will lead to some good agreement. Buy the clothing you feel will give you a new look, make you most attractive. Stop cheating yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have an opportunity for recreation you enjoy and can be with congeniality really like. Take a little time for exercise and tune up your health. Do only that work that is necessary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are not careful, you could touch off some big argument at home, so be diplomatic. Make your home as happy and harmonious as you can. Stop sacrificing so much and you will be much happier.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking cleverly and quickly and can accomplish a good deal that was impossible before. Get errands done and make appointments early. Buy the supplies that make you more efficient.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Money is much on your mind, and the quickest way to make some is to cut down on expenses right away. Then get into some new outlet that adds to income.

People's Choice?

By JEFFERY HART

It is widely believed that the reforms instituted by the McGovern commission, set up

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

The very core of the heroin epidemic is being attacked in a novel and hopefully effective way.

Special types of insects are being bred to attack and destroy the poppy plants and cannabis plants that are responsible for heroin and marijuana.

It is known that certain types of insects feed on the opium poppy and destroy the plant.

The Commonwealth Institute in London has allocated $150,000 to carry on the research.

An approach to the control of the plague of heroin addiction is a welcome addition to the limited range of our present resources.

The leaves of a vine that grows in the jungles of India and Bengal have been effectively used for the treatment of some cases of asthma.

Dr. D. N. Shivpuri, of the University of Delhi in India, has been experimenting with the vine, Tylophora indica, and thinks that the results justify more extensive clinical trials.

At present he is trying to find and purify the active substance in the leaf that seems to relieve some types of asthma.

Perhaps this may yet prove to be of value, and will be mass-produced for patients everywhere.

A special type of high-speed power drill can now take samples of the lung for microscopic studies.

The diagnosis of complex problems is now made easier by this power drill, which is similar to the one the astronauts used to take samples of the moon's soil.

Dr. Donald C. Zavala, of the University of Iowa College of Medicine, uses this pneumatic drill with little or no discomfort to the patient.

A tiny incision between the ribs, made under local anesthesia, quickly permits the instruments to safely remove a core of lung tissue for study.

The entire procedure takes only a few minutes. In almost 85 per cent of the cases studied in this manner, positive diagnosis was made in lung conditions that might otherwise have escaped recognition.

This technique was only one of the important presentations at a meeting sponsored by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

New horizons were also opened for the study of emphysema, especially for its earlier detection and treatment.

It may soon be possible, with some of the new tests, to discover people who unknowingly are susceptible to emphysema and other respiratory illnesses.

Your hunches are very good and should be followed.

four years ago by the Democratic National Convention, opened up the nominating process, made it more democratic by allowing wide participation, and that now McGovern himself is the beneficiary.

This is a myth. Sen. McGovern has done fairly well in the primary elections, though his showing in the states that do hold them has been anything but overwhelming — and certainly cannot be said to constitute a mandate for his nomination. His most impressive popular showings came in Wisconsin and Massachusetts. He won narrowly in California. He beat Gene McCarthy in Illinois. In New York he was virtually unopposed. He was drubbed in Florida and Michigan. Often the total voter turnout was surprisingly low, as in Rhode Island, where he won against no opposition, with 10 per cent of the eligible voters turning out.

The real strength of the McGovern campaign has been the showing of his organization in states choosing their delegates by methods other than the direct popular vote. In these states McGovern enthusiasts succeeded in taking over the delegate selection process at the precinct level.

Characteristically, this has been anything but a broad-based, popular movement. Rather, it has been the triumph of an energetic, ideologically committed minority. The ordinary Democratic voter does not involve himself in the precinct meetings, caucuses and state conventions that characterize this process. He usually doesn't have the time to do so; and politics does not play a large enough role in his motivation to get him out to those late night meetings or those long trips at the state level. Nor does he fully comprehend the rules of the game. But the McGovern ideologues did. And McGovern has thus been able to capture blocs of delegates in such unlikely places as Texas, Vermont, Idaho, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, and even, Lord help us, Louisiana.

But these delegates do not reflect anything like massive popular support for McGovern among Democratic voters. Richard Stearns the McGovern operative who had command of the campaign in non-primary states, told a reporter that one of the important factors working here for McGovern was "that we were not covered" by the press or by television — and so the delegate-gathering operation could go forward unknown to the mass of voters, who might otherwise have taken alarm.

The effect of the McGovern reforms, therefore, was not to open up the nominating process in the Democratic Party to a wide range of voters. Rather, the reforms provided an opportunity for a new elite to displace the older elites that formerly controlled the party. The McGovern strength lies in the affluent suburb, on the campus, and among certain media and professional groups. As long as the traditional Democratic operatives controlled the nominating process, these groups, as in 1968 were consigned to the McCarthyite wilderness. The McGovern reforms opened the door and allowed them to take control.

But there has been no extension of "democracy." If anything, the attitudes and voters that were those of the new elite are less representative of the mass of Democratic voters than were those of the traditional political operatives. And this spells trouble, which is beginning to show up at the polls, as in California, where some 40 per cent of those Democrats who voted for Humphrey say they will switch to Nixon in November if McGovern is nominated.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street's efforts at selling itself to the public are being betrayed, a distinguished securities official has charged. The traitor: the language.

Wall Street's vocabulary is, so to speak, the language of the street. It is unique, quaint, mysterious, slangy. And, in the opinion of Leon Kendall, "it binds our thought processes."

Kendall is president of the Securities Industry Association, a trade group that represents many of the large stock market firms. As he sees it, street talk reveals more about the user than it communicates to the listener.

"The customer can have a round lot or an odd lot," says Kendall. "He can have a Big Board stock or perhaps an over-the-counter stock. If he's lucky, maybe even a hot issue."

"If he's a little more sophisticated, perhaps we can offer him a put or a call, strips, straddles, spreads, or maybe a discretionary account."

"Of course, if he's looking for growth, we're likely to just offer him ordinary common stocks, certainly not preferred stock. Perhaps we might talk to him about mutual funds."

"Here he can have an open-end fund or a closed-end fund, or maybe even those one-time wonders the dual-vest funds. Whatever the type, he will be offered the load fund or the no-load fund, or perhaps a front-end load fund."

The vocabulary of Wall Street is spoken swiftly and with assurance that only those who should know will understand. Naturally enough, a member of the buying public seldom dares to penetrate this world lest he be revealed by a foolish question. Language of that sort is meant to discourage questions. Some of it can be traced back to the day when the public wasn't needed. Now it is.

Kendall reminded a recent marketing meeting of the New York stock exchange that a poor vocabulary not only limits the capacity to think, but more importantly, it limits the ability to pick up new business.

"What do we do about it?" he asked. And he answered: "Get a new language."

Not every word need be changed, he said, "but every word should be systematically examined to determine if it is consistent with the tenets of good marketing communications."

He then proposed formation of a professional marketing committee to explore the words used in dealing with the public. Needed, he said, are "new, fresh, positive, descriptive, modern terms."

That would be the beginning. "When a successful new vocabulary is developed, it will take reprogramming of our salesmen, our operations people, even our owners and managers to implement it. It may even take law changes."

Then, presumably, the public will understand, and that conceivably could be the next crisis facing Wall Street.

McCoy Convicted Gilligan Signs Of Skyjacking Transport Bill

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) —

Richard Floyd McCoy, 29, a Vietnam veteran and former Sunday school teacher, was found guilty Thursday night of air piracy in the $500,000 skyjacking and parachute jump from a United Air Lines plane in April.

McCoy was convicted of commandeering a Boeing 727 with 85 other passengers aboard over western Colorado the night of April 7 and diverting it off its Denver-Los Angeles route to San Francisco where the passengers were let off and $500,000 ransom paid aboard.

The prosecution presented four days of testimony in U.S. District Court, calling more than 30 witnesses and introducing 50 pieces of evidence against the former law enforcement student who sat expressionless as the verdict was read. His wife Kathy broke into tears.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Gov. John J. Gilligan Friday signed into law the bill creating a state Department of Transportation.

The bill's prime sponsor, Rep. Gordon M. Scherer, R-71 Cincinnati, said he was "tremendously pleased that this vitally needed legislation has been signed into law."

Gilligan had wanted the bill to include the state's Division of Aviation in the department.

The division was in and out of the bill several times as the measure made its way through the 109th General Assembly. The final version left it out.

Gilligan indicated earlier this month he might try to reinstate it by executive order.

South Viet Troops Leapfrog Armor In Quang Tri Drive

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters leapfrogged hundreds of South Vietnamese paratroopers over their supporting armor Friday and landed them within four miles of Quang Tri City as Saigon's forces pressed ahead with their offensive to recapture South Vietnam's northernmost province.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported that the assault zone was so heavily pounded by U.S. B52 bombers before the dawn lift that some of the helicopter pilots couldn't see through the clouds of dust and smoke. They had to land several hundred of the troops at alternate sites.

Officers said they encountered no heavy organized resistance, but the troops clashed sporadically with small groups of North Vietnamese soldiers and five enemy tanks were reported knocked out.

South Vietnamese tanks and armored personnel carriers advanced up Highway 1 behind the paratroopers, about three miles north of the My Chanh River. They found the shattered hulks of four enemy tanks which South Vietnamese marines had knocked out when Quang Tri Province fell on May 1. Infantrymen with the armor collected a number of abandoned heavy weapons.

Small groups of North Vietnamese snipers still lurked in bombed areas behind the paratroopers' front lines, and several South Vietnamese positions along Highway 1 took sporadic artillery fire.

President Nguyen Van Thieu flew to Hue and conferred for an hour and a half with his senior commanders in the drive to retake Quang Tri, now in its third day. He was smiling as he came out of the conference.

Government military spokesmen reported more than 250 North Vietnamese killed in fighting on the Quang Tri front and southwest of Hue on Thursday. South Vietnamese casualties were 29 killed and 93 wounded, they said.

Heavy clashes were reported by paratroopers and marines who made a pair of largescale helicopter landings on the coast east of Quang Tri City on Thursday. Spokesmen said 90 Communist troops were killed in one of the battles and 73 in another.

$9.6-Billion Antipoverty Bill Could Face Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overriding opposition from the White House, the Senate has passed a $9.6-billion antipoverty bill which sets up an independent corporation to help the poor with legal problems.

After a week of sometimes-angry debate, the Senate Thursday voted 74 to 16 to approve the measure and send it back to the House, which passed a somewhat different version last February.

A conference will attempt to iron out differences between the two versions after Congress returns July 17 from the recess for the Democratic National Convention.

The Senate measure authorizes funds for two more years for programs aimed at helping the 26 million Americans officially designated as living in poverty.

The bill authorizes funds quite a bit higher than President Nixon recommended for many programs of the antipoverty agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The measure does not give Nixon the authority he sought in handling or transferring programs. And administration officials indicated they still are not satisfied with the form of the Legal Services Corporation contained in the bill.

Thus, the possibility looms that Nixon might again veto the legislation when it reaches him.

Last December, he vetoed a measure containing similar OEO provisions but also setting up a large federal child-care program. Child care is being handled in separate legislation this year.

A Republican move to strike from the bill the provision for the Legal Services Corporation was turned back by a 56-34 vote Thursday. The same move lost Monday on a 46-37 vote.

The chief sponsor of the bill, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said changes had been made in the corporation to meet Nixon's veto complaints.

But conservative Republican senators said the legal-aid program has been marred by abuse, including support for left-wing causes, violent demonstrations and participation of young lawyers in the program in political activity.

They maintained that the bill would not cure these shortcomings.

Wallace To Leave Hospital In Week

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Gov. George Wallace will leave Holy Cross Hospital next Friday to go to the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach with a layover at Montgomery, Ala., his press secretary said Friday.

Wallace, who has been receiving physical therapy in the hope that he will regain use of his legs, will fly in an Air Force ambulance plane provided by President Nixon.

At Montgomery's Municipal Airport, Danley Field, the Alabama governor will make a short speech from a platform set up beside the plane, his press secretary Billy Joe Camp said.

They light the night indoors and out, in rec rooms, around the pool or patio, in gardens or festooned around campers. Each set is made of eight five-inch globes containing a small, clear bulb. The nearly unbreakable translucent globe are available in three colors—lemon, lime and orange.

Add on connectors are available to expand the 15 foot stretches of light. The new General Electric product is entirely portable, easy to change bulbs and UL approved.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Daughter-In-Law Needs Peace Now

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that the last one in the family to be married is the one who has to take the widowed mother in? I have had my mother in law for 20 years, and not one of the others will offer to take her even for a few days.

I am a nervous wreck. I can never have a private conversation with my husband unless we go into our bedroom, and whisper so she can't hear us. I can't even go shopping unless Mamma goes along for the ride. We haven't had a vacation in 20 years without her.

My husband tells me that I will get my reward in heaven, but I can't wait that long.

TIREDE
DEAR TIREDE: Tell your husband you have earned a little "heaven on earth," and to figure out a way to give you a preview.

DEAR ABBY: When a couple gets a divorce, who gets the bride's wedding rings? (My set costs $900).

My husband is financially secure enough, but claims he cannot afford alimony. He takes home a minimum of $160 a week, but it's usually more because of overtime.

I make $40 a week take home. I also have multiple sclerosis and have a heavy medical expense. I can't get a better paying job because of my physical handicap. Besides, I had enough trouble getting this one.

There is also the question of wedding gifts. We received linens, silver, kitchen appliances, good china, etc. Almost everyone on my side of the family gave us money for a wedding gift (now long spent, of course). His side gave us mostly gifts. Who should get them? I imagine a lawyer could settle this, but I would like your sincere opinion.

FINANCIALLY HURTING
DEAR HURTING: My sincere opinion is that you should get everything you're legally entitled to, that's why I suggest you ask your lawyer for a legal opinion.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a fellow who was turned down when he asked a girl for a goodnight kiss on the first date. He said he was glad that turnaround didn't prevent him from asking that girl for another date.

I have been dating a girl for six months, and I am proud to say that so far all she's given me is a goodnight kiss at the door.

She's a very special young lady who shuns X-rated movies, Go-Go bars, and parking. I admire her greatly for her high moral standards. She has a good head on her shoulder, thinks for herself and conducts herself like a lady at all times. Some day she'll make some lucky man (hopefully me) a fine wife.

I have a great deal of respect for her, and I think I love her. And I thank her parents (and mine) for raising us as they did.

I am 19 and have a whole lifetime ahead of me to experience and enjoy the deeper emotions, and I intend to wait until I have earned that privilege.

No need to use fake initials. If that girl sees this letter and knows I wrote it, it will prepare her for what I hope to tell her soon.

L.G.R.: TRENTON, MICH.
DEAR L.G.R.: What a refreshing letter.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I invited two couples to our home for dinner one night last week one couple had been married for five years, and the other couple was engaged.

Before dinner, both couples were in each other's arms, off and on, kissing passionately. Now, Abby I have no objections to couples showing affection to each other but they really acted like they were all alone.

I am not an old prude myself. I'm 25, have been married for four years, and I love my husband every bit as much as either of those girls love their guys, but I think there's a time and place for everything.

Once, I jokingly said, "Okay, kids knock it off." My husband gave me a dirty look and after they left he lectured me. Was I wrong, Abby? Please tell me. That one couple (The engaged pair) made me blush.

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: I'm in your corner.

Miss Patricia E. Brackett Bride Of Douglas Herron

MRS. DOUGLAS A. HERRON

Miss Patricia Ellen Brackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Brackett, 609 Garden Parkway and Mr. Douglas A. Herron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Herron of Heath exchanged marriage vows 11:30 a.m. June 24th. Msgr. George Buchmann performed the double ring ceremony in St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Columns of white gladioli and Fuji mums adorned the altar and white satin bows marked the pews. Mr. Thomas Sullivan, organist, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She selected for her wedding day a floor length gown of satepeau and Venice lace with an empire bodice and sheath skirt. The high neckline and full bishop sleeves were trimmed with lace. A crown of Venice lace held the bride's three tiered illusion veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies and miniature carnations surrounded with blue cornflowers and backed with springer. A shower of ribbons tied in lover's knots flowed softly from the bouquet.

Attending the bride were her sister, Miss Cynthia Brackett as maid of honor and Miss Barbara Jo Brackett, the bridesmaid. They wore white dotted navy blue gowns in the princess style with long skirts and short sleeves. Wide brimmed hat trimmed with blue and white bows and streamers completed their ensembles. They carried colonial bouquets of white daisies and miniature carnations centered with cornflowers and surrounded with German statice.

Douglas Charles Brackett, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Mr. Craig Lambert of Circleville performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Robert Mauro, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. Dan McElroy, Newark and Mr. Bill Sodeman, St. Louis, Mo.

The bride's mother was attired in a light blue princess style shantung dress trimmed with white lace. Her accessories were white and her corsage was of white miniature carnations and blue forget-me-nots. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow and white embossed dress with matching jacket and yellow accessories. Her corsage was of miniature yellow carnation and white forget-me-nots.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents immediately followed the rites. White lace covered the oval table centered with a three tiered cake topped with satin wedding bells and flanked by silver candlesticks and white floral arrangements. Hostesses were Miss Ann Hedges, Miss Elizabeth Moon and Miss Vicky Schroeder.

For a wedding trip to Pennsylvania and New York, the bride wore a brown and white double knit afternoon dress with white accessories. The couple will reside in Schenectady, N. Y.

The new Mrs. Herron is a graduate of Circleville High School and Cazenovia College, Cazenovia, N. Y. with an Associate of Science degree.

Mr. Herron graduated from Newark High School and Cornell University where he is a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity. He is employed by General Electric Co. in Schenectady, N. Y.

Special guests at the wedding were Mrs. Ralph H. Matthews Sr. of Saugus, Mass., grandmother of the bride and Mr. E. E. Herron of Newark, grandfather of the groom.

Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Weaver, New Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dawson, Zanesville; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McElroy, Heath; Jeff Danford, Miss Sara DiGianda and Robert White, Newark; John Yaros and Miss Patty Rodnak, Pittsburgh, Pa. and Evan Poole, New York.

You can keep packaged cake mixes as long as one year if they are stored in a cool dry place.

Lily Society Slates Show In Mansfield

The tenth annual show of the Ohio Lily Society will be held at Kingwood Center in Mansfield, Ohio, Saturday and Sunday, July 8 and 9. This competitive event is one of Kingwood's most colorful shows and features one of the most dramatic garden flowers. The show will be open free to the public 2 to 6 p.m. Saturday, July 8 and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday, July 9.

One of the special features of the show will be a large exhibit from the Oregon Bulb Farms in Gresham, Oregon. These lilies will be flown in by plane and will consist of most of the new varieties and introductions of this world-famous lily producing firm.

All gardeners may compete in the show whether or not they are members of a garden club or the Society. Entries may be made between 7:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Saturday, July 8 at the Kingwood Meeting Hall. Members of the Society will be on hand to help new exhibitors prepare their specimens for showing. The schedule includes classes for all types of true lilies — not to be confused with day lilies, calla lilies and other plants with 'lily' as part of their name.

In addition to horticultural classes, there are 10 classes for arrangements — using titles of songs as their theme. This gives creative people an opportunity to display their talents.

Trophies and awards are to be made in both horticultural and arrangement divisions.

Kingwood Center is located in the western section of the city of Mansfield, Ohio. It is easily reached from the north and south by Interstate 71, from the east and west by U.S. Route 30, and from the Ohio Turnpike by Ohio Route 13.

Chichester Doesn't Want Rescued

Nervous Cubs Turn Back Pirates, 4-3

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was nervous-nervous time for the Chicago Cubs Friday night. Joe Pepitone—remember him?—got the shakes before the Cubs' 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh and Rick Reuschel—a name to remember—joined him in the late innings.

"I haven't been that nervous since the seventh game of the 1964 World Series," said Pepitone, returning to action for the first time since April 24 after two months on the voluntarily retired list.

Reuschel's first game in the majors was less than two weeks ago. He won it in relief and has won two subsequent starts.

"I was listening to the game on the radio and you bet I was nervous," the 6-foot-3, 230-pound right-hander said as he stretched out on a table in the locker room with ice packs on his back and ankle. He blanked the hard-hitting Pirates on two hits for 7 1-3 innings before the ankle-back combination forced him out and relievers Dan McGin and Jack Aker blew most of a 4-0 lead.

While the third-place Cubs climbed within 3 1/2 games of Pittsburgh, the New York Mets trimmed Montreal 7-3 and pulled within three percentage points of the Pirates in the National League East. In the West, Cincinnati lost to San Diego 4-3 in 13 innings and Houston bowed to Atlanta 5-2 so the Reds remained one-half game in front of the Astros. Elsewhere, San Francisco trounced Los Angeles 8-4 and St. Louis downed Philadelphia 4-1.

Billy Williams, who drove in the Cubs' first run with a sacrifice fly, cracked a two-run double in the sixth inning and scored what proved to be the winning run on Rick Monday's single.

Reuschel's injury problems started on a play at first base in the seventh inning.

"I hurt a tendon in my ankle covering first," he said. "I was nursing the ankle a little bit and that's when I started to feel a little pain in my back. I asked to be taken out when I started to feel a little dizzy."

Pepitone singled his first time and then hit three hard fly balls, all caught.

The Mets jumped on Montreal rookie Balor Moore for four runs in the first inning—two walks, Jim Fregosi's single, Cleon Jones' two-run double and Jim Beauchamp's sacrifice fly—and got their final run in the ninth on Willie Mays' 64th career homer. Tim Lincecum and John Boccabella homered for the Expos before Danny Frisella saved the victory for Joe Mauer with three shutout innings of relief.

The Reds and Padres struggled through 10 scoreless innings before each team scored twice in the 11th and once in the 12th. In the 13th, the Padres loaded the bases on Dave Roberts' double, a walk and Nate Colbert's single.

Clarence Gaston grounded to third baseman Darrel Chaney, whose throw to the plate forced Roberts. But catcher Johnny Bench threw the relay trying for a double play past first base, allowing Lee to score.

Wayne Simpson pitched no-hit ball for Cincinnati for six innings and right fielder Cesar Geronimo, a seventh-inning defensive replacement, threw two San Diego runners out at the plate and tripled home the Reds' two runs in the 11th.

The Reds didn't lose any ground, however, when Atlanta scored three runs in the ninth on Ralph Garr's double, Hank Aaron's RBI single and Earl Williams' second homer of the game to beat the Astros. Mike Lum also homered for the Braves; Bob Watson and Jim Wynn homered for Houston.

The Giants supported Ron Bryant with a barrage of extra-base hits, including home runs by Chris Speier, Jimmy Howarth—his first in the majors—and Tito Fuentes, and turned back the stumbling Dodgers. Wes Parker and Chris Cannizaro connected for the losers, with Parker's two-run shot in the sixth ending Bryant's string of 23 consecutive scoreless innings.

The red-hot Cardinals made it three in a row, 10 of 11 and 18 of 24 by beating the Phillies behind Scipio Spinks' five-hit pitching. Jose Cruz homered for the first St. Louis run and Lou Brock hammered a run-scoring triple. Joe List homered for the Phils.

Bob Lewis Riding High In Cleveland Tournament

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Rookie Bob Lewis, riding high in a tie for third place in the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament after the first round, figures this might be the time to win his first regular tour tournament.

"I know I can win," the 26-year-old Warren, Ohio pro said. "If I can get my putting going, I know I'm going to win some."

Lewis got down in 28 putts, eight fewer than par, Friday, in fashioning a 33-34-67. He was double-bogged with Mike Spang of Portland, Ore., another pro youngster, and Canadian veteran George Knudson.

All three had to chase Larry Hinson of Beach Mountain, N.C., who edged in front of the field with a 31-34-65, six under-par. That was one stroke ahead of husky Johnny Jacobs of San Diego, Calif., who posted a 35-31-66.

In all, 23 pros shaded the 35-36-71 par at Tanglewood Country Club Friday, despite the soggy going where iron shots buried in saturated greens. The lift-and-replace rule was in effect, so heavy was the going, but even that didn't always help.

"I had to move the ball on practically every green," Lewis said. "One green I had to give myself a tougher putt. I was in a tougher putt or replacing on a tougher putt or replacing on the fringe and chipping."

But despite the water-logged fairways and greens, which had some of the pros renaming the tournament the "Sea World Open," Lewis bubbled with determination.

Savings Bank, Dairymen, Oilers Win LL Minor Tilts

Savings bank, Blue Ribbon Dairy, and Circleville Oil were all winners in the Little League Minors Friday evening.

Savings Bank increased their winning streak to five games and remained on top in the Minor league after defeating Ward's Market, 18-6.

Rob Sark and Tracy Wagner were the winning hurlers giving up four hits, walking six and fanning eight.

Kevin Roan led the hitting department for the Bankers with a triple, two doubles and a single, Sark smacked two doubles, Terry Speakman hit a

"I've made a lot of putts," he said, "but when you go out there with a 74 you worry second day about making the cut. Now I can go out there and worry about winning the tournament, it makes a difference."

Lewis, who sank one 35-foot birdie putt and another of 25 feet said, "I never had one putt short all day long."

He spoke for all rookies on tour when he said, "If you don't have perseverance and a good putter you'll never make it."

double and a single, Wagner and Dave McKinney also hitting a double and a single and Bob Nolan got two singles.

CRAIG Gifford and Don Holbrook were on the mound for Ward's allowing 14 hits, 13 walks and fanning four.

George Johnson slugged a double and a single and Brungs hit two one baggers.

Blue Ribbon Dairy shutout IOOF, 7-0, with Jeff Rase firing the victory.

The Dairy pitcher gave up only two hits, walked six and struck out nine.

Dave Harber blasted a homerun, Mike Contino slugged a triple, Don Dountz hit a double, Mike Harrison, Tony Smith and R. Pfeiffer each hit singles for the Dairymen.

IOOF had Ted Robinson and Doug Rhoads on the mound allowing six hits, 11 walks and nine strike outs.

TED Robinson hit a triple for the IOOF crew and R. Lemaster got a single.

Circleville Oil bounced into second place after last night's win over Rotary 13-7.

Randy Brown tossed the win, permitting 15 hits, walking three and fanning 10.

Rich Elsea slugged a triple and a double for the Oilers while Jeff Lanman hit a triple, Mike Morgan a double, Jack Fuller two singles, and Lee Rooney, Jeff Poling and Randy Brown got singles.

Brad Willoughby threw off the mound for Rotary giving up nine hits, walking 14 and fanning ten.

Willoughby slugged a triple, Scott Neff got two doubles while Dave Manson hit two doubles and a single, Mark Agin three one baggers, Kevin Rogols hit two singles and Dan Jerrell hit a single for the Rotary Club.

Savings Bank is all alone in the league lead with a record of 5-0 and Circleville Oil is in second place at 4-1.

Steve Hargan Is Optioned To Portland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pitcher Steve Hargan, who made a comeback with the Cleveland Indians last year after being plagued by arm trouble for two seasons, was optioned to the Tribe's Portland farm club Friday.

The 29-year-old Hargan was sent back to the minors to make room for the return of first-baseman Chris Chambliss from Army reserve duty. And Hargan says he doesn't "want to come back" to the Indians.

"I would rather go to another organization and start all over again," he said, because he feels that he still can salvage something from a once-promising major league pitching career.

The right-handed hurler was the player with the most longevity on the Indians roster, having been on the team since 1965 except for a brief spell in the minors in 1970.

Hargan was called up to the Indians in mid-1965, then turned in good seasons back-to-back in 1966 and 1967 before coming down with arm trouble that plagued him for the next 2 1/2 years.

Elks Blast Coke In Major Game

The Elks bombed Coca Cola, 13-2, in the Little League Major game played Friday evening.

The Elks pitched Toren Bensonhaver and Glen McFarland giving up two hits, walking six and fanning 13.

Bensonhaver had a couple doubles for the winners while Marc Albright and John Harr smacked a double apiece, Joe Mogan hit a pair of one baggers and Chuck Boltenhouse hit a single.

Perry Oberly was throwing off the hill for Coke giving up seven hits, walking four and striking out six.

Beeman Leasure and Ron Hill each were hitting for Coca Cola with a single apiece.

Dobson, Orioles Top Tigers, 3-2

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"All I said," Billy Martin was explaining, "was he's gonna get Tigeritis against us the next time he's in Detroit." Instead, the Tigers came down with a severe case of Dobsonitis.

Because of the Detroit manager's comment, Pat Dobson said, doing a little explaining of his own, "I wanted to win that game more than any game I ever pitched."

LE Village, Zane Trace Win Contests

Logan Elm Village upended Morrison's Market, 11-2, and Zane Trace swamped Stoutsville, 28-0 in Tri County Pony League action Friday.

Steve Rawlins hurled the win for the Villagers. He allowed six hits, walked four and struck out nine.

Messick and Williams performed the mound duties for Morrison's. They gave up 11 hits, walked five and fanned nine.

Greg Justus rapped a pair of doubles for Logan Elm. Jeff Reichelderfer, Scott Pontious and Rawlins had two singles apiece while Duck Allen, Randy Pontious and Phil Manson each had a one-bagger.

MESSICK had a pair of singles for Morrison's while Kevin Pettibone, Williams, and Jenkins each had a single for the losers.

Logan Elm Village is now 7-1 and will host Teays Valley Thursday.

Terry French and Ric French shared the mound duties for Zane Trace. They allowed three hits, struckout 10 and walked three.

Hartley, Marshall and Crites were on the mound for Stoutsville, giving up 22 hits, 14 walks and six strike outs.

Ric French led the Trace attack with a homerun, two doubles and a single. Dancy Dearth added two doubles and a pair of singles. Skip Beeman smashed a four-bagger and two singles, Jeff Wright had a double and two singles, Terry French connected for three singles, Delbert Tatman, and Charles Thurston each had two singles while Kenny Bell had a single for the winners.

Marshall had a pair of singles and Holbrook a one-bagger to account for the Stoutsville hits.

Economist Claims Latonia Victory

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP)—Economist claimed a 2-length victory Friday night in the featured ninth race at Latonia Race Course by pacing the mile in 1:59 4/5, only 1-5 of a second off the track record.

Economist took the lead at the halfway mark and won easily. Mutuels were $3.20, $2.80 and $2.20.

Freight Arrow placed for $3 and $2.40, and showing was Hi Peggy for $2.60.

Miss Bay Way, paying $16 to win, and Sterling Mix, good for $37.60 to win, combined for a $408.80 daily double, the largest of the current meet.

A crowd of 2,414 wagered $146,971.

And he did just that. The tall right-hander tossed a four-hit right while the Baltimore Orioles, taking advantage of some Detroit ineptitude in the field, scored a 3-2 victory Friday night to slice the Tigers' lead in the American League East to a single game.

In the rest of the American League, Texas turned back California 7-3, the New York Yankees edged Cleveland 1-0, the Chicago White Sox defeated Oakland 6-5 in 11 innings, Minnesota beat Kansas City 2-0 and Milwaukee's game at Boston was rained out.

Martin, who has embroiled himself in more than his share of baseball feuds, began this one with that "Tigeritis" comment a week ago, when the Tigers played in Baltimore—and he also suggested his players "would rattle the seats with homers" when they got a shot at Dobson.

Willie Horton managed to rattle a few in the left field stands with his sixth home run in the second inning. But that barely made up for a misplay which paved the way to two Baltimore runs in the first.

The Birds got only six hits against Detroit, one of them a gift compliments of Horton.

After a two-out infield single in the first inning, the Tiger left fielder misplayed Boog Powell's fly ball, which sailed over his head for a run-scoring double. Brooks Robinson then doubled Powell home.

And in the fifth, Don Buford struck out but reached first when catcher Bill Freehan was charged with a passed ball. John Oates' single and Bobby Grich's doubleplay grounder then produced what proved to be the winning run.

A walk, a sacrifice and Roy

White's two-out single in the bottom of the ninth gave the Yanks their victory over Cleveland.

Barnhill, PPG Win Mosquito League Frays

Barnhill's and PPG were the victors of the Mosquito league games played Friday.

Barnhill's dumped Hummel and Plum, 23-3, with Jeff Bloomfield, Bob Brown, and Brad Fisher were all throwing for the winners.

The three moundmen gave up eight hits, walked 13 and turned ten back at the plate.

Brad Fisher went 5 for 5 at the plate blasting a homerun, a triple, a double and two singles for the Cleaners. Rod Bumgarner was 4 for 4 with three doubles and a single.

Brown slugged a double and a single, Terrence Berrigan hit a double, John Brumfield hit two triples, Mark Tacy three singles, and Mike Cain and Kevin Sowers each had a single.

Brian Detty and Mahaerner were pitching for Hummel and Plum, giving up eight hits, walking 13 and fanning ten.

Mahaerner and Ralph Jacobs each hit a home run for the Hummel and Plum gang as Tim Lane hit two doubles, and Ken Kline got a double and a single, while Jim Fericks hit a single.

PPG edged out Hill implement 8-7 in another Mosquito game last night.

Mick Davis smacked a homer, a double and a single in the winning cause while Bob Steele slugged a homer, Rick Salyers hit a double and a single, Jay Elsea hit a pair of singles and Jack Heeter and Matt Albright each popped a single.

Hitting for the Hill club were Larry Pennington with a triple and a single, Brian Davis got a double, Mark Gerhard, Tim Woods and Rick Speakman hit singles.

Block's and Barnhill's are the leading contenders for the league title with Blocks having a 5-0 mark and the Cleaners with a record of 6-1.

Noble Gesture Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Noble Gesture zipped from third position at the three-quarter pole to post a three-length victory in the featured $7,000 trot at Scioto Downs Friday night.

The winner, touring the mile in 2:01 2-5, returned $4.20, $3.20 and $2.80. Hassie Blaze paid $7.60 and $4.20 for second and Latest Record $3.60 for show. Attendance was 7,682; handle $391,761.

land's 12-game winner, Gaylord Perry.

The White Sox bombed 11-game winner Ken Holtzman out with a five-run outburst in the first inning, three of them coming on Dick Allen's 14th homer.

But after watching the lead disappear, they pulled out the victory over the A's on Mike Andrews' bases-loaded walk.

Successive homers by Ted Ford and Larry Bittner in the fifth inning led the Rangers' attack against the Angels.

Unbeaten Ray Corbin notched his fourth victory with a six-hit performance and Bob Darwin and Eric Soderholm slapped run-scoring singles in the seventh inning to lead the Twins past the Royals.

QUINELLA 4-9	$17.70

Padres Stop Cincy Reds, Win 4-3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds must be wishing someone at the University of Oregon had lectured Dave Roberts on the importance of completing his college education.

The 21-year-old rookie infielder, whom the San Diego Padres lured into pro baseball earlier this month by choosing him first in the big leagues' free-agent draft and offering him a $60,000 contract, made a nuisance of himself against Cincinnati's National League West leaders Friday night. And after 13 innings, San Diego scored an improbable 4-3 victory.

"The kid makes things happen, doesn't he?" understated Padres Manager Don Zimmer.

Roberts, fresh from a four-hit game that included his first major league homer the night before, was quiet for six innings Friday night as the Reds' Wayne Simpson no-hit the Padres. Then in the seventh he broke up the no-hitter with an infield single and ultimately was thrown out at the plate for the first of three times in the game.

After the Reds broke a scoreless tie on Cesar Geronimo's two-run triple in the 11th, up came Roberts in the bottom of the inning to hit a tying two-run single. And once again he wound up being thrown out at home.

In the top of the 12th, Roberts was the victim of a rare obstruction ruling as he and Pete Rose lay in a heap at third base while the ball rolled away. The umpire ruled that Roberts had hindered Rose's progress and awarded Cincinnati a run.

The Padres tied the score again on Larry Stahl's two-out pinch single, and in the 13th, Roberts led off with a double. A walk and Nate Colbert's single loaded the bases, and on Clarence Gaston's tap to third base Roberts was once again thrown out.

While Bobby Murcer, the Yanks' top hitter, has complained about Perry's alleged spitball and gone hitless in three games this season against the Cleveland ace, White uses a different method and it seems to work.

The first question asked White after his second straight game-winning hit was whether he hit a spitball. It was a logical question, since Perry's National League years were strewn with controversy about just what, if anything, he applied to the baseball besides his fingers.

"It was my sweetest hit of the year," said White, who was robbed by second baseman Jack Brohamer in the same situation in the first inning.

The nation's hunters and fishermen provided nearly 250 million dollars for fish and wildlife restoration in 1971.

Washington Rips Stoutsville, 33-3

Washington smashed Stoutsville No. 2, 33-3, in a Mosquito League contest Friday.

Eric Longberry hurled the win for the Washington nine. He scattered four hits, gave up three walks and fanned six.

E. Garrett, M. Crable and C. Dickey shared mound duties for Stoutsville. They allowed 13 hits, 20 walks and struckout four.

Allen Young paced the Washington attack with three doubles and a single, David Hoffman blasted a triple and a pair of doubles, Mike Lemley had a double and single, Richard Buskirk rapped a pair of singles while Chris Seimer and Stacy Carter each had a one-bagger.

R. Stevens, Garrett, Crable and Roger Fraser each had a single for Stoutsville.

Washington is now 4-1 and will host Amanda Wednesday.

out at home—but Johnny Bench's relay to first went wild and the winning run scored.

Roberts, whose average has soared from under .220 to .272 in five days, was exuberant. "This is the most fun I've had in my life," he said.

Yankees Top Tribe; Win 1-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Spitter? What spitter? Gaylord Perry doesn't throw a spitter.

That's what Roy White told himself when he came to bat with two out in the ninth inning Friday night and that's what he told everyone after his single to center field gave the New York Yankees a 1-0 American League victory over the Cleveland Indians.

While Bobby Murcer, the Yanks' top hitter, has complained about Perry's alleged spitball and gone hitless in three games this season against the Cleveland ace, White uses a different method and it seems to work.

The first question asked White after his second straight game-winning hit was whether he hit a spitball. It was a logical question, since Perry's National League years were strewn with controversy about just what, if anything, he applied to the baseball besides his fingers.

"It was my sweetest hit of the year," said White, who was robbed by second baseman Jack Brohamer in the same situation in the first inning.

Oil Sludge Smear Worries Officials In Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Federal officials say the six million gallons of oil sludge smeared on the banks and waters of the Schuylkill River by last week's flood poses no present problems to water supplies fed by the river.

But Environmental Protection Agency head, William Ruckelshaus called the oil spill "worse than anything I've seen."

Ruckelshaus on Friday toured the 35 mile stretch of the Schuylkill which was polluted when sludge from an oil reclamation plant in Douglassville was lifted out of its lagoon and swept away by the flooding river.

Teams of Army engineers and Coast Guardsmen have stretched protective booms and "filter nets" over five intake pipes to keep the slime from entering water supply systems in communities along the river.

An EPA official said the clean up will be a "long-term, major proposition."

The sludge, most of it used automobile crankcase oil, coats the banks of the river from Douglassville downstream to Philadelphia. Trees, shrubs, and grass are coated with the black film.

Environmental officials say they don't know how the foliage can be cleaned. But as each new rain comes, more of the greasy blanket is washed back into the river.

Terry Fabian, operations chief of the state Water Quality Management Bureau office in Norristown said the blackened riverside foliage would either die or have to be removed.

But if it is, he added, "it will open the way to serious erosion along the banks."

The president of oil reclamation company whose plant caused the spill called the spill "an act of God."

"Our lagoon walls held," said H. Lester Schurr, head of Berks Associates. "The water was more than six feet over the tops of the lagoons. It just lifted the sludge and carried it away."

Youth Sent To Center

Permanent assignment to the Ohio Youth Commission of a 13-year-old Orient girl was ordered recently in the Pickaway County Juvenile Court.

The girl had run away from home and refused to return or to obey her parents in violation of her probation, so the court ruled the youngster be sent to the youth correctional center.

Eighteen-year-old Timothy R. Selva, 126 E. Mill, was found guilty of driving 50 in a 35 mile zone and failure to keep assured clear distance ahead, causing an accident on S. Court St. The youth had his license suspended fully for 30 days, and restricted for 11 months until June, 1973, for work purposes only.

Charged with malicious destruction by damaging an auto owned by Doris Jackson, E. Union St., a 12-year-old local boy entered a guilty plea and was ordered to make restitution of $30 for breaking window glass in an automobile. He was placed on probation with the court for three years.

Driving a vehicle with two bald tires, no horn or emergency brake resulted in a citation for 17-year-old Verronia J. Arnold, Chillicothe. Her case was transferred to Ross County juvenile authorities for final disposition.

An Ashville girl, Jody Harris, was fined $10 and ordered to pay court costs for failure to yield at a stop sign. Though non-accident, the 17-year-old was found guilty of the charge but $5 of the fine was suspended.

Carl A. Fuller was fined $10 for speeding 76 in a 60 mile zone. The 17-year-old Mt. Sterling area boy was picked up on Route 56, north of Five Points. He was further ordered by the court to attend traffic school and had his license restricted so he may only operate a motor vehicle to and from work.

A guilty plea was entered to a stop sign violation by Carl Edward Liston, Columbus. The 17-year-old paid a $10 fine and costs.

For shoplifting merchandise from a Lancaster Department store an Adelphi boy, 14, was placed on probation for one year.

Red . . .

(Continued from Page 1) between Pleiku and Kontum in the central highland had been opened to military traffic for the first time since mid-May.

They said a 40-truck convoy carrying food and ammunition drove the 25 miles from Pleiku to Kontum on Friday without incident. The route had been closed by Communist forces and all efforts by South Vietnamese troops to dislodge them had failed.

Rangers searching the area around Chu Pao mountain, the location of most of the fighting along the road, found 250 dead North Vietnamese soldiers in mass graves, the spokesman said. Another 53 were found in another location nearby.

On Friday South Vietnamese forces drove within three miles of Quang Tri City as they battled to retake the northernmost territory.

The 20,000-man task force encountered sporadic enemy resistance as the drive was in its third day. The province fell to the North Vietnamese two months ago.

The South Vietnamese advance appeared to be moving on schedule, but the absence of bridges spanning two rivers south of Quang Tri slowed the drive somewhat. Many of the bridges were destroyed by allied air strikes after the province fell.

City Board Holds Special Meeting

Meeting in special session Friday noon, the Circleville Board of Education hired replacement personnel for Mrs. Opal Sims and Coach John Ganton and awarded contracts for various services.

Mrs. Sims, who was hired at the regular board meeting June 20, had notified the city board that she had changed her mind and will remain in the employ of the Logan Elm Board of Education. Hired to fill the psychologist position at Circleville was an Ashville resident, Patricia Southward. She holds a master degree from Ohio State University and has had seven years' experience.

A resignation was accepted from John Ganton, who had signed a contract as head football coach at Westfall, and David Angles hired as his replacement. Angles is a graduate of Ohio State and has three years experience as a teacher. His assigned duties here are junior high physical education, assistant football coach and freshman wrestling coach.

Also hired were:

RON Malone, a graduate of Ohio State, to teach social studies at the high school, coach seventh grade basketball and assist the junior high football program.

Kathernie Skala, a recent graduate from Ohio University with a baccalaureate degree to instruct intermediate class in the EMR division.

Mrs. Jennifer Starn, who holds a master degree from Akron University and has had three years' of teaching. She will be assigned an elementary position.

Marlin Snyder, bus driver, and Doris Miller and Anna Allen, part time cafeteria employees at Nicholas and High St. schools.

The board awarded a contract to Carl Tracy to install a partition in the supervisors' office to make an additional room for the school psychologist.

Contracts for services were awarded to Blue Ribbon dairy, milk for school cafeterias; Hummel and Plum, insurance coverage for third driver education car used during summer; Lawn Improvement Service (Rick Spire), a contract for $47.50 to remove dead bushes, treat junior high lawn and trim other bushes, spray for bagworms at Atwater.

PERMISSION was granted by the board to have Bob Frazier, who is putting up fencing at Nicholas Drive, install the playground equipment.

The school board also authorized replacement of a carryall vehicle used to transport food from Mound to High St. elementary. The superintendent was granted permission to investigate possible replacement vehicles.

(Continued from Page 1) sprang up overnight in protest against Catholic barricaded areas in Londonderry, despite appeals by British authorities to avoid action that might precipitate civil war.

At least seven Protestant areas of Belfast were sealed off by militants of the Ulster Defense Association. Armed with wooden batons, and policed by men wearing special arm bands, the militants checked the credentials of all persons attempting to enter or leave their enclaves.

The Catholics pulled down three barricades Friday in Londonderry as a gesture, but most remained up today.

Demo Party . .

Committee to investigate the dispute. The examiner, Cecil F. Poole, concluded that the Chicago Democratic organization had violated nearly every party guideline for delegate selection.

Those guidelines, drafted by a reform commission launched by McGovern after the 1968 convention, require states to give the proper representation to women, youth, blacks and other minority interests, and to select delegates in open well-found "deliberate, covert and calculated" violations in the Chicago delegation.

Of the 59 Daley delegates, 12 were black, eight young and six women. Attorney Wayne W. Whalen, who represented the Chicago challengers, said 38 were committeemen in the Daley organization and the rest were either relatives of organization members or other party officials.

Jerome Torshen, a lawyer for the Daley delegation, said it had been elected under Illinois laws by 900,000 Democratic voters whereas the rival slate was put together in back rooms by "a small self-anointed elite group."

One delegate, James P. Harrelson of South Carolina, said the committee, in its anxiety get Daley, was endangering the party's election chances in November.

But another, Matthew Troy, Queens County party leader in New York City, declared, "I spent seven months breaking my back to get my delegates into line with the McGovern guidelines. And I'll be damned if I'm going to let Richard Daley stay outside those guidelines and do what he likes. All he did was put in old-line party hacks who would do what Dick Daley told them to do."
